MUSIC DIRECTOR AT HIGH SCHOOL TRAGEDY VICTIM

Prof. Charles M. Bliss Drops Dead While Listening To Radio Report

STUDENTS ASSEMBLED

Had Taken Active Part in Civic Life of Ada During Season

Tragedy gripped at the heart of the Ada high school this morning when Charles M. Bliss, supervisor of music in the Ada high school, dropped dead at the entrance of the assembly room of the high school shortly before 11 o'clock this morning while listening to a radio report of the Fairfax-Ada basketball game at Norman.

The entire student body of the high school assembled at the time Bliss succumbed to the heart attack listening to the reports of the basketball game.

Funeral arrangements had not been made at a late hour this afternoon.

Professor Bliss came to Ada at the beginning of the school year and immediately took charge of music instruction in the high school. Since his arrival here he has been actively engaged in the musical advancement of Ada as well as high school instruction. He has been actively affiliated with all musical advancement effective in Ada.

Mr. Bliss was standing in an entrance of the assembly room listening to the reports of the basketball game between Ada and Fairfax at Norman as given over the radio. Suddenly he fell to the floor.

Restoration efforts failed. Several teachers reached him quickly and tried to apply restorative measures before the coming of the doctor. After a short examination, however, the physician stated that there was no hope and that death had come instantaneously, with no suffering. His heart had simply given out.

Mr. Bliss was survived by his wife and a daughter who lives in Ohio. The daughter was immediately notified by telegraph of the tragedy. Classes were dismissed for the day and the school flag draped at half mast.

Mr. Bliss came to Ada from Enid, where for eight years he had served as dean of the school of music in Phillips University. Before that he had held the position of supervisor of public school music in Oklahoma City schools for eight years. This was the first year of work here.

The deceased was fifty-eight years of age. His death was quite unexpected as he was unaware of any trouble with his heart. He had complained occasionally during the winter of pains in his chest but had never had the trouble diagnosed. He had felt some pain on rising this morning but seemed his usual hearty self while attending to his duties at the school.

ADA HI CAGERS LOSE TO FAIRFAX

First Round of Tournament Ends Hopes of Ada Baskett Hurlers

NORMAN—(Special) March 14.—Ada High School's basket flingers lost their first chance to play a commanding part in the Oklahoma Inter-scholastic Basketball Tournament here at 10 o'clock this morning when they lost to the Fairfax team to a score of 14 to 9.

Ada's loss was the second of the tournament, Amber having fallen rough shod beneath the heels of the Oklahoma City cagers in the opening game of the tournament.

With the game standing at a tie in the third quarter, Fairfax took a spurt that carried them to victory over the fighting Ada cagers in the last period of the play.

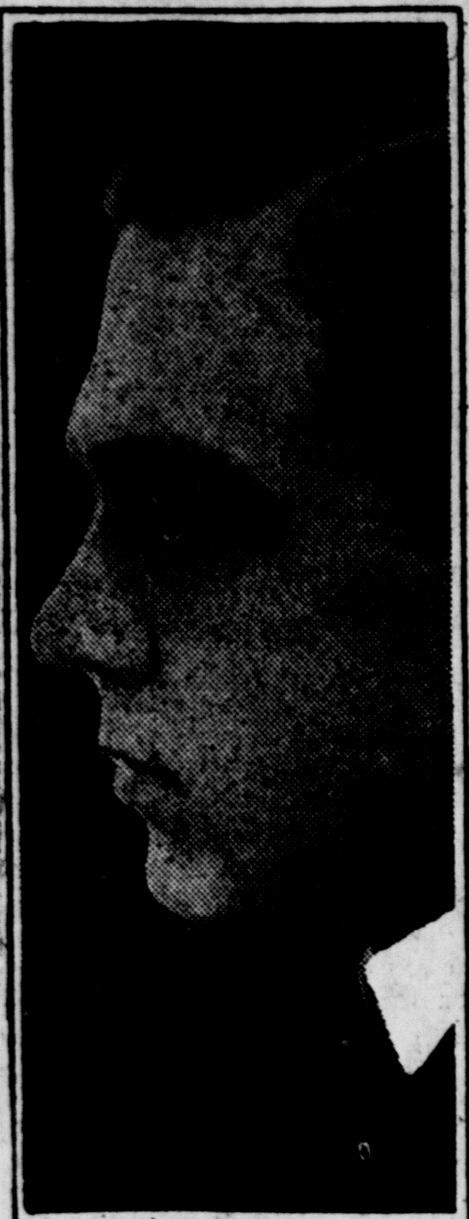

The Ada basket flingers scored first in the game but was overcome in the first quarter by the Fairfax team by one field goal and a foul. At the end of the second half Ada had the lead with a score of 4 to 3. The third quarter passed without a score but the fourth weakened for the Ada team and the Fairfax cagers piled up the lead that enabled them to victory.

The elimination of the Ada team ends their hopes in the tournament and places Fairfax in line for the semi-finals.

Frye Bill Passed.

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 14.—A bill by Senator Frye of Salinas to protect Indian minors and incompetents was passed by the house today 59 to 5 without being materially amended.

AMERICAN PRODIGY WINS NEW HONOR IN ENGLISH SCHOOL

William J. Maier, Jr.

William J. Maier, Jr., Huntington, W. Va., prodigy, has won another honor. He has been elected secretary of the British-American club at Oxford, the famous English university, where he is in his second year. Maier was graduated from Harvard when he was 19. Besides winning a Rhodes scholarship while there, he added three other scholarships to a long line he began acquiring while in high school.

MOORE DELIVERS HELPFUL SERMONS

Singing of Campbell Now Attracting Much Interest

Dr. J. E. L. Moore delivered two wonderful messages at the Nazarene church. The morning subject "God's Wonderful Provision" and at the evening hour "The Problem of Evil". The singing of Prof. Campbell is attracting much comment and his auditors acclaim him a great singer. Subject tonight "Salvation's Rainbow."

"Man made in the image of God, stood close to Him in the Garden of Eden, but invested in sin and a great gulf intervened, so deep and wide that it could not be bridged by human effort, human philosophy or even angelic power. Jesus at the cost of His life threw a bridge across it and called it Salvation. Angels must have shouted in jubilation at this wonderful accomplishment, which had been planned by infinite wisdom, procured at infinite cost administered by infinite love and bringing infinite mercy to millions.

"Justice untempered with mercy would make this world a prison house for the guilty. But mercy shines in the morning light and glides the setting day. Mercy sighs in the laughing stream and shouts in the darkening storm. Mercy tempers the summer's heat and the winter's cold; revives the parched earth with blessed rain; clothes the landscape with beauty and crowns the year with goodness. It flies on the wings of angels to the support of the feeble; to the defense of the poor; to pardon the guilty. Mercy brings the message of hope to the despairing; of joy to the sorrowing; of rest to the weary; of life to the dead. Yea Mercy makes a house of God in every place where the penitent bows in prayer. It gives immortal life to all who look to Jesus to be made whole."

Delivery of Fourth Army Plane to Make Round World Flight

(By the Associated Press) Clover Field, Santa Monica, Calif., March 14.—Delivery of the fourth world cruiser army plane which will join the squadron in a round-the-world flight, was scheduled for today. Lieut. Erick H. Nelson, engineer of the world touring squadron, was to take the ship for its test flight, later flying to San Diego Sunday for compass calibration. A Martin Bomber from Kelly Field, Texas, arrived yesterday to participate in the air carnival Sunday and another is expected to reach here today.

There will be almost 100 ships on hand for the air circus when it is under way.

ATTENTION K. K. K.

Regular meeting tonight. Special entertainment by distinguished visitors. All citizens of the Empire are urged to be present.—EXALTED CYCLOPS. 3-14-11

County Highways not Dump Ground

County Keepers Maintain Motorists Must Not Dump Refuse on Pontotoc Roads

RUBBISH, splintered Ford to unmentionable woman's garments, must be kept off public highways or prosecution at the hands of county commissioners will be launched with parental vigor.

So reckless has become the habit of motorists and others in dumping refuse on the county highways that Pontotoc county's arteries of travel are taking on the appearance of a downtown alley instead of a respectable country road.

Chief among the victims as refuse heaps is the gravel highway, which oftentimes takes on the appearance of a picnic ground, commissioners aver.

An inspection by county commissioners recently revealed that every kind of rubbish imaginable could be found on the gravel road. Dead dogs, cats, chickens and even horses and cows are oftentimes marks of scenery to the conservative Sunday afternoon motorist.

Maintaining that they stood for the repression of unnecessary scandal, commissioners refused to reveal some of their finds in their tour of the gravel road. One commissioner averred that sufficient parts of Fords and other cars had been found to set up a car intact.

Commissioners were also reticent on purported discovery of filthy garments, supposed once the property of maids of local residence.

The country fathers also mentioned the fact that several bottles, fruit jars and other glass containers with distinctive odors had been found along the highways.

CONFESSION IS SERMON SUBJECT

Rev. Thorn Stresses Need of Essential for True Confession

While confessions are in vogue in connection with the Teapot Dome scandal in Washington, Rev. Thorn, evangelist preaching at the Baptist church here in a series of meetings urged upon his listeners the needs of "Confessing our sins to God" in his sermon Thursday night.

Using three verses from the tenth chapter of Romans as his text, Rev. Thorn implanted the urgent need of confession of sin in his appeal to his listeners.

The evangelist stressed the point that true confession comes from the mouth as a result of belief in the heart and declared that the conviction of the heart was essential before the confession of sin entered into the salvation of the lost sinner.

"Confession of sin alone will not save a lost soul but a true conviction and determination to continue in the belief in God leads to the salvation and hope of Heaven," the evangelist said.

Rev. Thorn cited several instances in Biblical history where confessions alone did not save the sinner, declaring that confessions under a storm of trouble often proved weak when the storm of life had passed and the sinner again treads his old path of life.

Thorn pictured the return of the prodigal son as an instance of where confession and determination to repent and serve brought salvation to a lost soul. He depicted the scene of the young son leaving his father after he had received his share of his father's worldly goods and how sin carried its detriment to him financially and spiritually until the prodigal realized his great need, confessed his sin and vowed that he would return to the house of his father and serve him. He also pictured the great welcome given him by his father.

"Friendship in the service of God is the only lasting friendship. Friendships founded on common ties cannot endure in the storms of life. Only the bondage in friendship in God can last through the trial of life," the pastor declared.

At the close of the sermon two came forward, one uniting with the church and the other withholding her preference in church affiliation.

Rev. Thorn announced that his sermon tonight would be "A Sinner at the Judgment."

Expel Two School, Suspends One From Athletic Group

(By the Associated Press) OKLAHOMA CITY, March 14.—Sapaula and Cushing have been expelled from the Oklahoma High School Athletic association by the board of control, it was announced early today following a meeting that lasted virtually all night.

Charges against Sapaula and Cushing were that ineligible players had competed on teams of the two schools.

Altus high school was suspended until the authorities of the school file with the state association proper eligibility lists.

Police Members to Question Alleged Communist Leaders

(By the Associated Press) LOS ANGELES, March 14.—Members of the police radical squad were prepared today to question 39 alleged members of the communist party arrested in raids at San Pedro last night which police described as so-called socialist sympathizers.

The prisoners were charged with criminal syndicalism. According to the raiding officers, Manuel Levin, 28, who said he was a Russian, was instructing about 50 men, women and children in the principles of soviet government when he was interrupted.

McGraw Is Witness. WASHINGTON, March 14.—J. J. McGraw of Oklahoma, former Republican national committeeman, has been subpoenaed to appear before the Daugherty committee March 20.

Bank Bandits Are Given Sentences Of Thirty Years

(By the Associated Press)

PAWHUSKA, March 14.—Sentences of 30 years each in the penitentiary were imposed on Sam Coker and "Buster" Jarrett, both of Nowata county, who were convicted in district court here yesterday of the robbery of the First National bank of Shidler. The jury was out 10 minutes.

The robbery was on January 2 last. The loot amounted to $8,051.53. Coker and Jarrett were identified at the trial by F. X. Hesse and H. C. Hinson, officials of the bank.

Highway robbery charges are pending against Coker in Washington county. He was acquitted of murder last year. Both men had been arrested a number of times.

SENATE WRANGLES OVER NEW ANGLE

Squabble Results From Report Of Hughes on Columbian Treaty Matters

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 14.—While the oil committee was in recess today the senate got into a squabble over a report from Secretary Hughes in response to a senate request for information as to possible oil phases in the negotiation of the Columbian treaty.

Asserting the report had specific bearing "upon the Fall case," Senator Dill, Washington, contended that it should be referred to the oil committee. Senator Lodge, Republican leader, wanted it referred to the foreign relations committee and his demand finally prevailed.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Plans for today's proceedings of the oil committee were suddenly cancelled because of the illness of Senator Walsh, the committee prosecutor. Hearings will be resumed Tuesday but there has been no decision as to what line of evidence will be examined next.

Senator Walsh has been suffering from a severe cold and will be confined at his apartment for a few days. He has not been in good health for sometime but it was said at his office today that his condition is not serious.

WILBURN TO GET NAVY LEADERSHIP

Former Annapolis Graduate to Be Appointed to Succeed Denby

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Curtis D. Wilburn, chief justice of the California supreme court and a graduate of the naval academy, has been selected by President Coolidge to succeed Edwin Denby, veteran of both the navy and marine corps, as head of the navy department. Judge Wilburn announced his acceptance of the appointment last night in San Francisco. Mr. Coolidge is expected to submit his nomination immediately to the senate.

Judge Wilburn was tendered the cabinet post after William S. Kenyon, who resigned from the senate to become federal circuit judge, had declined the appointment, saying he felt that he lacked the "essential qualifications" for navy secretary. Both jurists had been considered also in connection with the attorney generalship, is understood, and the belief prevails that if Harry M. Daugherty should resign an offer of his place in the cabinet would prove more acceptable to Judge Kenyon.

Assistant Secretary Roosevelt has been acting secretary of the navy since Monday when Mr. Denby retired and will remain in charge until the new secretary takes office.

In Rhode Island and Massachusetts there are no limitations on the rate of interest fixed by contract.

JOURNAL ENTRY METHOD RAPPEL

Resignations of Two State Solons Withdrawn in Retraction Move

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 14.—The resignations tendered the senate by Senators C. B. Leedy of Arnett and H. B. Durant of Miami were withdrawn today.

The resignations were retracted after the senate had spent the morning quarrelling over alleged "steam roller methods" and "false entries" in the journal.

The trouble was laid to the practice of rushing through legislation at the last of the session by several senators.

Sensor T. F. Memminger of Atoka decided the haste that attends consideration of measures when a session end is near at hand. "This practice has made the journal show I voted against my own bills," he asserted.

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 14.—The second resignation in the Republican ranks in the state senate was tendered today by Senator C. B. Leedy of Arnett. Leedy in a communication to the senate declared, "my vote and my body and soul no longer belong to me or to my constituents and I prefer to resign if this senate is to vote me as it pleases when my resignation is accepted."

Leedy protested because the journal recorded him as voting in favor of the emergency clause to the Darlington home bill. He said the vote was not according to his wishes and was over his protest to the president pro tem.

Sensor Durant of Miami tendered his resignation yesterday also claiming he had been denied an opportunity to vote as he wished on the Darlington measure which provided for the transfer of the narcotics at the home to the state hospital for the insane at Supply.

TO BUILD MODEL CITY FOR PETROLEUM MEET

(By the Associated Press)

TULSA, Okla., March 14.—The site for the 1924 International Petroleum Exposition here, which is to be held in October, will be a model city when completed and an entirely new plan for exhibiting the many displays will be installed.

The exposition has taken over grounds formerly held by a large oil concern and already ten buildings have been constructed and streets laid out.

Two additional buildings will be built next month. In all there will be 400 inside booths and manufacturers of oil field and refinery equipment are taking up the space rapidly. E. F. McIntyre, general manager, has announced.

Each of the buildings on the lot will be designated by states which figure principally in the oil industry. They will be Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, New York, Kentucky, Ohio, Wyoming, Missouri and California. The streets between will be named after the states of Illinois, Indiana, Montana, Oklahoma and California, the executive committee has announced.

This year the various exhibits will be classed and distributed to booths, according to dimensions, noise of operations and class, McIntyre said.

An auditorium theatre, rest room for men and women and an emergency hospital will be erected on the site.

The exhibition will start October 2.

Cotton Consumed Decreased.

(By the Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 14.—Cotton consumed during February totaled 507,867 bales of lint and 41,698 of linters compared with 576,744 of lint and 40,281 of linters during January this year and 566,805 of lint and 47,296 of linters in February last year, the census bureau announced today.

The astronomical day begins at noon, the civil day at midnight.

MR. MAJOR SEES MR. SLEMP—BUT PURELY SOCIALLY

John Major.

"Purely social" was the way John Major, confidential agent of E. B. McLean described to the senate oil probe committee his several visits with C. Bascom Slomp, secretary to the president.

STOMPED FATHER TO WIERD DEATH

Mother Claims Hypnotized by Healer and Caused to Direct Murder

Tampa, Fla., March 14.—A strange story of a 16-year-old girl that she stomped upon her father about the chest and face until he died, while her mother, according to the girl's story, held her by the arms and urged her on, was related to officers here early today.

The girl, John Eva Winchester, and her mother, Laura Eva Winchester, are held on a charge of murder in the Hillsborough county jail in connection with the death of John Edwin Winchester, 55, who was killed shortly after midnight Wednesday at Sesser, 10 miles from here.

John Eva related the details of the killing of her father and said the "stomping" took over half an hour.

Mother and daughter were arrested yesterday. Officers had found the two surrounded by residents of Sesser who said Mrs. Winchester told them:

"Jesus made me do it and I, queen of the universe, made John Eva do my bidding."

Sometime later Mrs. Winchester was quoted as having said she had gained her right senses and demanded the arrest of Raymond Richey, a "healing evangelist" conducting a series of revival services at St. Petersburg.

"I was hypnotized," Mrs. Winchester declared. "Richey did it. I was under his power. It was his influence that spurred me on and roused my wild impulse."

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 14.—Raymond T. Richey conducted a series of revival meetings in Oklahoma City and Tulsa last year. Thousands attended the services and many claimed they were healed by his faith cures.

Testimony of Skilled Doctors Not Needed In Many Instances

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 14.—Testimony of skilled physicians is not necessary to prove injuries such as lacerations, contusions and abrasions, discernible to the naked eye, the supreme court of Oklahoma held in an opinion awarding $10,125 personal damage to Mrs. S. B. Skirvin, Tulsa county, who was injured when an automobile ran into her.

J. C. Liecher, Tulsa, was the defendant in the case which was appealed from the Tulsa district court after the lower court had found for the plaintiff, Mrs. Skirvin. The supreme court sustained the lower court.

Lecher contended that the extent of the woman's injuries, immediately following the accident, had not been determined by skilled physicians. Bystanders testified to the abrasions, contusions and lacerations and the high court held their evidence was sufficient to establish that the injuries were the result of the accident.

SECRET AGENT IS CONTRIBUTOR OF STARTLING NEWS

Declares Several Members of Cabinet Spied on by Investigators

TELLS OF SMITH DEAL

Maintains Mellon Subjected to Investigation; Caraway Was Victim

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 14.—"Asking no quarter and giving none" Gaston B. Means, former department of justice secret agent, today testified before the senate committee investigating Attorney General Daugherty that in February, 1922, in the old Bellevue hotel in Washington he received from a "Jap representing Mitsui & Co., $100,000 to stop government prosecution in the Standard Aircraft case and that he turned the money over to the late Jesse M. Smith, Attorney General Daugherty's "bump-off" friend.

"The $100,000 was received in the old Bellevue hotel here in February, 1922, just before Smith went to Florida," Means said.

It was received at night and given to Smith, the witness testified. "Jesse Smith came along and got it that same night," Means said.

"Smith came to his hotel room for the purpose of obtaining it. I did not know what it was for at that time," Means said.

Prosecution of the aircraft case, Means testified, was withdrawn by the war department from the department of justice.

Roxie Stinson, Smith's divorced wife, who had been telling of alleged deals between him and Attorney General Daugherty, was reported ill and unable to continue her testimony today.

Means said he had been originally advised by his counsel T. B. Felder, not to but he said he had decided to waive immunity and "tell it all."

Others in Mixup Now.

Secretary Mellon's name was brought into the investigation by Means who said that for President Harding he had investigated matters connected with "certain permits" having to do with violation of the Volstead act.

When asked who he meant by "they" Means replied:

"Oh, Jesse Smith and W. T. Underwood whom I saw last at Palm Beach."

Means said Smith and Underwood wanted "to catch Mellon and we got him." The president, he added, wanted the information.

Means said he gave Capt. R. L. Seale "thousands of dollars" in connection with his investigation.

The charges against Attorney General Daugherty, Means declared, were not true. Means said he knew Underwood represented the president. Later through Underwood and Smith, Means said he was informed that President Harding wanted some "confidential by Jesse Smith, Underwood and myself."

In New York, Means said, he investigated reports that "Secretary Mellon had granted certain permits."

"The first time he slipped through our fingers," he said. These investigations, the witness said, related to violations of the Volstead act.

Caraway Is Investigated.

Means also said that a Laura Jacobson investigated Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas. The Caraway investigation was made after the senator had attacked President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty, Means said.

Sensor La Follette also was investigated, the witness continued adding that he saw to it that La Follette's office was gone through although he did not do it personally.

Smith and Underwood, Means said, gave him orders to investigate Senator La Follette to learn "anything that would stop him."

Smith paid his expenses, he said. Means, however, could not state of his own knowledge that Smith was following the orders of the attorney general.

Preliminary For Blacksmith Slayer Forced to Wait

(By the Associated Press)

BRISTOW, March 14.—The preliminary hearing of murder charges against E. W. Ezra, a blacksmith, and his daughter Edith, 19, scheduled for today, was postponed until Monday or Tuesday because of the inability of a witness to attend.

M. W. Snyder, father of Lee and Orris Snyder, who were killed in a fight at Ezra's shop Wednesday, was so badly beaten up in the difficulty that he is confined in his home.

Until the state requested a continuance today it was not known that the elder Snyder was at the scene of the killings.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A NEW COMMANDMENT I give unto you, That ye love one another: as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. By this shall all men know that ye are My disciples, if ye have love one to another.—John 13:34, 35.

EVENING NEWS TWENTY YEARS OLD.

Today marks the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Ada Evening News. It finds the paper enjoying a reasonable degree of prosperity, thanks to the liberal support accorded it by the public, and looking forward with confidence to a still larger field in a city of still greater proportions in the midst of a county whose resources shall be developed to the greatest possible capacity and the people enjoying a degree of prosperity never before attained.

When Carlton Weaver launched the little publication it was in a town of less than 3,000 inhabitants. It was a foregone conclusion that it would be a losing proposition for quite awhile to come, but the founder and his successor Otis Weaver had a vision of the possibilities of Ada and this part of the Indian Territory and being a booster by nature he took this means of contributing to the upbuilding of the city and surrounding country. It was several years before the paper carried a volume of business sufficient to pay its way but the publisher held on in the face of discouragements and obstacles until the town had partially realized the hopes he had held for its future and the News was at last on firm ground.

The management of the paper has changed three times since then but it can be said to its credit that the News has always been a booster and has never been in the hands of a knocker. It has done what it could for the advancement of the community and expects to keep this up for all time to come.

Ada owes its existence to the fact that in the early days this was the home of a bunch of boosters who presented a united front and worked at all times for the interests of the town as a whole and who have spent their money freely to promote the public welfare. This element includes every class of citizenship from the man of means down to the day laborer and it is with these that the News is in sympathy and works. It is the mission of the paper to give all the support possible to movements of progress and it expects to continue this policy.

Since the News first saw the light dozens of other small town dailies and a whole string of large city dailies have appeared only to give up the fight after a brief struggle and pass from the newspaper field. A paper cannot be run forever on hope and many have found to their sorrow that with hopes are not always realized. The News again thanks the public for its liberal support and expects to grow into a larger paper as the city and county attain the places nature intended them to occupy.

MORE DEATHS BY AUTO.

What is the solution of the automobile hazard? This is one of the puzzles before humanity at this time, and particularly does it need solution in the United States.

All of the accidents are not caused by carelessness of the drivers. It is not uncommon to see boys and girls, men and women go across streets in the business parts of town and cities without paying any attention to the traffic about them. Even when a car is moving only five or ten miles an hour, it cannot stop inside of three or four yards.

Of course many accidents are caused by reckless driving. We have no patience for such an animal. We yet have to see the first man speed who was speeding to reach an important engagement. It is the fellow who is not going anywhere that wants to get there so fast.

There is one thing certain, something needs to be done. The deaths in New York City alone average more than two a day. In the country as a whole, it probably averages fifteen or twenty a day. You see how many are killed in a year's time, enough to make a city the size of Ada.

McLean insists that he told the truth when he said he promised Fall he would lie for him. Perhaps McLean had no interest in the oil transactions as he insists and was merely trying to shield a friend; but if this is true his friends certainly got him into a peck of trouble. Having admitted that he helped cook up and perpetrate one lie the public will not be in a mood to accept his other statements at face value.

McLean's testimony before the oil committee did not shed any new light on the Fall matter. It only made it plainer than ever that the whole transaction was bogus and intended to hide the facts in the case which were that Fall had accepted money from the Sinclair and Doheny interests also in the guise of loans.

From time to time it is reported that the Teapot Dome oil field has been a disappointment and losing proposition to the Sinclair interests, but Sinclair has served notice that he will fight to the last ditch to prevent the lease from being cancelled.

We should not think of suggesting that Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey were really sick, but at that it was good publicity.

ST. PATRICK SENATE

Miss Tarbell and Her Message

(Chickasha Express)

Miss Ida M. Tarbell is one of America's most distinguished women and her fame is by no means confined to this country. She has specialized in her own selected fields of economic and historical studies and has written authoritatively on a variety of topics. It was the privilege of Chickasha people to hear this gifted and honored woman at the Oklahoma College for Women and her lecture was all that those who know her scholarly attainments and literary skill expected it to be. It was the product of a mind trained in the methods of scientific inquiry and in the art of using language in the way that accurately conveys thought in pleasing and effective form. If anybody expected to find in Miss Tarbell merely a cold, mental machine, an impression that one might gather from reading the monumental maze of facts and statistics found in her history of the Standard Oil company, or her critical study of the tariff question, he must have been sorely disappointed. Her gracious manner and her magnetic personality mark her as a woman of rare charm and the broadest human sympathies.

Miss Tarbell has been spoken of as a product of the so-called "woman's movement," but reservations must be made in so regarding her. She is, indeed, a fine type of the modern woman matching her powers with man and winning outstanding achievement; she is a brilliant example of what higher education can do for a woman, but, in a deeper sense, the particular forces of which she is a product date much farther back than the rise of modern democracy and the industrial revolution to which she traces the modern "woman's movement." In reality she is a survival, or revival, of the type of womanhood which found expression in superior individuals as long ago as Queen Elizabeth and earlier ages; she is the product of the forces that always and everywhere make the finer type of humanity—heredity, plus environment—and in this sense the "woman's movement" has not been a controlling factor in her making. And whatever may have been her original endowments, she has added to them by that "enormous capacity for taking pains" which is genius. Without the opportunities that the modern world offers woman, given her ambition and her capacity for unremitting toil, she still would have been a remarkable woman.

In her views on the "woman question" Miss Tarbell is nothing if not practical. In politics, when she favors a woman for office, it is not because of her sex but because she is qualified to fill it. In political life she would have women exert their influence in the way that their peculiar powers fit them to serve. In the field of world peace she sees an opportunity for women to render a vast amount of effective service; she would have mothers rear their children with a "will for peace," the only force that will eventually wipe out war, and she stands for concerted action among the nations for the purpose of removing causes of conflict before they result in open warfare. These are common-sense ideas which should appeal to men as much as to women, though many of our statesmen, in their shortsightedness and partisanship, have repudiated them. If the manhood of America will not accept the responsibility of working out machinery to reduce the danger of war, let us hope that the women will respond to Miss Tarbell's plea and assume the leadership.

Let a News Want Ad get it.

GERMAN MARKET FLOODED WITH FOREIGN PRODUCTS

(By the Associated Press)

HAMBURG.—Spain is flooding Germany with oranges since the mark was stabilized; on some days as many as 100 carloads of the fruit leave this city for distribution throughout the republic. The vessels from Spain are unloaded here, and orange auctions are held four times a week. In Berlin the fruit sells at retail for from 30 to 50 cents a dozen, as compared to a price of 60 cents to $1.00 a dozen for apples from the northwest of the United States.

Eggs from China and Egypt also are coming into Germany in large quantities. From the latter country they are brought as ballast in German steamers calling at Suez. The prices on the imports range in the neighborhood of 36 cents a dozen, retail. While the foreign eggs are far from fresh, and are used chiefly by bakers and in the industries, their importation has had the result of keeping down the price of local eggs, which now sell for 60 cents a dozen.

The eggs from Egypt are small, and are characterized by soft shells. OWSELHAG, Holstein.—Jurgen Schnack and his wife recently celebrated the 70th anniversary of their wedding. Schnack, 90 years old, and his wife, 85, are both in excellent health.

SLEEPLESSNESS

Virginia Lady Says That Many of Her Long-Suffered Ills Have Fled Since She Took Cardui.

Bristol, Va.—"I can sleep good at night now, something I have never done before in my life," says Mrs. Deala Hawks, of 712 Prospect St., this city, "and it is due to Cardui."

"I was always nervous and tossed when I should have been asleep, but since I took Cardui it has strengthened me, and my general health is so improved that many of the ills from which I have suffered for years have fled."

"I used to go to bed tired and, when I would get up in the morning, I was still tired. Now I feel like doing a day's work in my garden or in the house, and I owe all this good health to Cardui, for I had suffered for years until I took it."

"I had had female trouble for years and once, for six months, I was flat on my back. I am glad to recommend to other women a medicine which has helped me."

If you are nervous and run-down in health, suffering as Mrs. Hawks describes above, it is probable that Cardui will greatly help you. Try it.

LEGION OF HONOR FOR LARGE FAMILY HEADS

PARIS.—The most coveted decoration of France, the Legion of Honor, is being used by the government to encourage people to till the soil and to reward them for having large families. A list of 65 to whom the Legion of Honor was awarded recently contained the names of eight women.

One of the women was the mother of 23 children of whom eighteen survive. Nine live with her and work the land. Three died in the war.

The longest citation was that given to Madame Vieren, whose husband was killed in the war. Left with five children she managed a small farm which was destroyed by the Germans, but she returned to it as soon as the invaders left. The farm was destroyed a second time by the Germans in 1918, but Madame Vieren was one of the first to return and resume working the land.

Upon her second return to the farm her landlord informed her that he intended to sell the property, whereupon she borrowed money and bought the farm. She was cited as a "true type of a valiant French woman worthy of all respect."

S.S.S. keeps away Pimples

THERE are thousands of women who wonder why their complexion does not improve in spite of all the face treatments they use. They should not continue to wonder. Eruptions come from blood impurities and a lack of rich blood-cells. S.S.S. is acknowledged to be one of the most powerful, rapid and effective blood cleansers known. S.S.S. builds new blood-cells. This is why S.S.S. routs out of your system the impurities which cause boils, pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash. S.S.S. is a remarkable flesh-builder. That's why underweight people can quickly build up their lost flesh, get back their normal weight, pink, plump cheeks, bright eyes, and "pep."

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

WANT A WIFE? SEE "BAD MAN," HE FIXUM GOOD

How far should a man go to make the man who had saved his life a "happy man?"

These are various answers that could be given to this question and all would be different. However, one answer forms the theme of Edwin Carewe's production of "The Bad Man," a First National attraction, which comes to the McSwain theatre today.

In "The Bad Man," all of Gilbert Jones' cattle from his Arizona ranch have been stolen. A mortgage is about to be foreclosed on his ranch. He is in love with the wife of a Wall Street millionaire and she is the same girl he gave his heart to before the great war.

With the arrival of Pancho Lopez, "The Bad Man," it is discovered that three years before Jones had saved the life of Lopez, then a poor peon. Lopez is the king of his own world and he essays to make Jones "happy" by saving his ranch for him and bringing to his arms the woman he loves.

To disclose how this is done would be telling the story of "The Bad Man." However, Lopez does it and does it in a manner that is as replete with thrills, tender love, romance and intrigue as any motion picture that has ever been taken.

THE EVIL SHEPHERD

By
E. Phillips Oppenheim

Illustrations by IRWIN MYERS

She held out her hand, white and spectral in the momentary gloom. At the other end of the lawn, Francis and Margaret were disembarking from the punt.

"Does it sound too shockingly obvious," she murmured, "if I say that I want to make you my law?"

It would have puzzled anybody, except, perhaps, Lady Cynthia herself, to have detected the slightest alteration in Sir Timothy's demeanor during the following day, when he made fitting appearances at the Sanctuary, or at the dinner which was served a little earlier than usual, before his final departure for the scene of the festivities. Once he paused in the act of helping himself to some dish and listened for a moment to the sound of voices in the hall, and when a taxi cab drove up he set down his glass and again betrayed some interest.

"The maid with my frock, thank heavens!" Lady Cynthia announced, glancing out of the window. "My last anxiety is removed. I am looking forward now to a wonderful night."

"You may very easily be disappointed," her host warned her. "My entertainments appeal more, as a rule, to men."

"Why don't you be thoroughly original and issue no invitations to women at all?" Margaret inquired.

"For the same reason that you adorn your rooms and the dinner-table with flowers," he answered. "One needs them as a relief. Apart from that, I am really proud of my dancing-room, and there again, you see, your sex is necessary."

"We are flattered," Margaret declared, with a little bow. "It does seem queer to think that you should own what Cynthia's cousin, Davy Hinton, once told me was the best floor in London, and that I have never danced on it."

"Nor I," Lady Cynthia put in. "There might have been some excuse for not asking you, Margaret, but why an ultra-bohemian like myself has had to beg and plead for an invitation, I really cannot imagine."

"You might find," Sir Timothy said, "you may even now—that some of my men guests are not altogether to your liking."

"Quite content to take my risk," Lady Cynthia declared cheerfully. "The man with the best manners I ever met—it was at one of Maggie's studio dances, too—was a bookmaker. And a retired prize-fighter brought me home once from an Albert Hall dance."

"How did he behave?" Francis asked.

"He was wistful but restrained," Lady Cynthia replied. "Quite the gentleman, in fact."

"You encourage me to hope for the best," Sir Timothy said, rising to his feet. "You will excuse me now? I have a few final preparations to make."

"Are we to be allowed," Margaret inquired, "to come across the park?"

"You would not find it convenient," her father assured her. "You had better order a car, say for ten o'clock. Don't forget to bring your cards of invitation, and find me immediately you arrive. I wish to direct your proceedings to some extent."

Lady Cynthia strolled across with him to the postern-gate and stood by his side after he had opened it. Several of the animals, grazing in different parts of the park, picked up their ears at the sound. An old mare came hobbling towards him; a flea-bitten gray came trotting down the field, his head in the air, neighing loudly.

"You waste a great deal of tenderness upon your animal friends, dear host," she murmured.

At the entrance to the great gates of the Walled House, two men in livery were standing. One of them examined with care the red cards of invitation, and as soon as he was satisfied the gates were opened by some unseen agency. The moment the car had passed through, they were closed again.

"Father seems thoroughly medieval over this business," Margaret remarked, looking about her with interest. "What a quaint courtyard, too! It really is quite Italian."

"It seems almost incredible that you have never been here!" Lady Cynthia exclaimed. "Curiosity would have brought me if I had had to climb over the wall!"

"It does seem absurd in one way," Margaret agreed, "but, as a matter of fact, my father's attitude about the place has always rather set me against it. I didn't feel that there was any pleasure to be gained by coming here. I won't tell you really what I did think. We must keep to our bargain. We are not to anticipate."

At the front entrance, under the covered portico, the white tickets which they had received in exchange for their tickets of invitation, were carefully collected by another man, who stopped the car a few yards from the broad, curving steps. After that, there was no more suggestion of inhospitality. The front doors, which were of enormous size and height, seemed to have been removed, and in the great domed hall beyond Sir Timothy was already receiving guests. Being without wraps, the little party made an immediate entrance. Sir Timothy, who was talking to one of the best-known of the foreign ambassadors, took a step forward to meet them.

"Welcome," he said, "you, the most unique party, at least, amongst my guests. Prince, may I present you to my daughter, Mrs. Hilditch? Lady Cynthia Milton and Mr. Ledsam you know, I believe."

Sir Timothy, later, in a moment's respite from the inflowing stream of guests, came once more across to them.

"I am going to leave you, my honored guests from the Sanctuary," he said, with a faint smile, "to your selves for a short time. In the room to your left, supper is being served. I want you to meet me in a room which I will show you, at a quarter to twelve."

He led them down one of the corridors which opened from the hall. Before the first door on the right a manservant was standing as though on sentry duty. Sir Timothy tapped the panel of the door with his forefinger.

"This is my sanctum," he announced. "I allow no one in here without special permission. I find it useful to have a place to which one can come and rest quite quietly sometimes. Williams here has no other duty except to guard the entrance. Williams, you will allow this gentleman and these two ladies to pass in at a quarter to twelve."

The man looked at them searchingly. "Certainly, sir," he said. "No one else?"

"No one, under any pretext," Sir Timothy hurried back to the hall, and the others followed him in more leisurely fashion. They were all three full of curiosity.

"I never dreamed," Margaret declared, as she looked around her, "that I should ever find myself inside this house. It has always seemed to me like one great bluebeard's chamber. If ever my father spoke of it at all, it was as of a place which he intended to convert into a sort of miniature Hell."

Sir Timothy leaned back to speak to them as they passed.

"You will find a friend over there, Ledsam," he said.

Wilmore turned around and faced them. The two men exchanged somewhat surprised greetings.

"No idea that I was coming until this afternoon," Wilmore explained. "I got my card at five o'clock, with a note from Sir Timothy's secretary. I am racking my brains to imagine what it can mean."

"We're all a little addled," Francis confessed. "Come and join our tour of exploration. You know Lady Cynthia. Let me present you to Mrs. Hilditch."

The introduction was effected and they all strolled on together. Margaret and Lady Cynthia led the way into the winter-garden, a palace of glass, tall palms, banks of exotics, flowering shrubs of every description, and a fountain, with wonderfully carved water nymphs, brought with its basin from Italy. Hidden in the foliage, a small orchestra was playing very softly. The atmosphere of the place was languorous and delicious.

"Leave us here," Margaret insisted, with a little exclamation of content. "Neither Cynthia nor I want to go any further. Come back and fetch us in time for our appointment."

After a time the men rejoined Margaret and Cynthia and then came suddenly face to face with Sir Timothy, who had escorted a little party of his guests to see the fountain, and was now returning alone.

"You have been visiting. I am glad to see," the latter observed. "I trust that you are amusing yourselves?"

"Excellent, thank you," Francis replied.

"And so far," Sir Timothy went on, with a faint smile, "you find my entertainments normal? You have no question yet which you would like to ask?"

"Only one—what do you do with your launch up the river on moonless nights, Sir Timothy?"

"Sir Timothy's momentary silence was full of ominous significance."

"Mr. Ledsam," he said, after a brief pause, "I have given you almost carte blanche to explore my domains here. Concerning the launch, however, I think that you had better ask no questions at present."

"You are using it tonight?" Francis persisted.

"Will you come and see, my venture some guest?"

"With great pleasure," was the prompt reply.

Sir Timothy glanced at his watch. "That," he said, "is one of the matters of which we will speak at a quarter to twelve. Meanwhile, let me show you something. It may amuse you as it has done me."

The three moved back towards one of the arched openings which led into the ballroom.

"Observe, if you please," their host continued, "the third couple who pass us. The girl is wearing green—the very little that she does wear. Watch the man, and see if he reminds you of any one."

Francis did as he was bidden. The girl was a well-known member of the chorus of one of the principal musical comedies, and she seemed to be thoroughly enjoying both the dance and her partner. The latter appeared to be of a somewhat ordinary type, tall, with rather puffy cheeks, and eyes almost unnaturally dark. He danced vigorously and he talked all the time. Something about him was vaguely familiar to Francis, but he failed to place him.

"Notwithstanding all my precautions," Sir Timothy continued, "there, fondly believing himself to be untraced, is an emissary of Scotland Yard. Really, of all the obvious, the dry-as-dust, hunt-your-criminal-by-rule-of-three kind of people I ever met, the class of detective to which this man belongs can produce the most blatant examples."

"What are you going to do about him?" Francis asked.

Sir Timothy shrugged his shoulders. "I have not yet made up my mind," he said. "I happen to know that he has been laying his plans for weeks to get here, frequenting Soto's and other restaurants, and scraping acquaintances with some of my friends. The duke of Tadchester brought him—won a few hundreds from him at baccarat. I suppose. His grace will never again find these doors open to him."

Francis' attention had wandered. He was gazing fixedly at the man whom Sir Timothy had pointed out.

"You still do not fully recognize our friend," the latter observed carelessly. "He calls himself Manuel Lofte, and he professes to be a Cuban. His real name I understood, when you introduced us, to be Shopland."

"Great heavens, so it is!" Francis exclaimed.

"Let us leave him to his precarious pleasures," Sir Timothy suggested. "I am free for a few moments. We will wander round together."

They found Lady Cynthia and Wilmore, and looked in at the supper-room, where people were waiting now for tables, a babel of sound and gaiety. The grounds and winter-gardens were crowded. Their guide led the way to a large apartment on the other side of the hall, from which the sound of music was proceeding.

"My theater," he said. "I wonder what is going on."

They passed inside. There was a small stage with steps leading down to the floor, easy-chairs and round tables everywhere, and waiters serving refreshments. A girl was dancing. Sir Timothy watched her approvingly.

"Nadia Ellistoff," he told them. "She was in the last Russian ballet, and she is waiting now for the rest of the company to start again at Covent Garden. You see, it is Metzger who plays there. They improvise. Rather a wonderful performance, I think."

They watched her breathlessly, a spirit in gray tulle, with great black eyes now and then half closed.

"It is 'Wind Before Dawn,'" Lady Cynthia whispered. "I heard him play it two days after he composed it, only there are variations now. She is the soul of the south wind."

The curtain went down amidst rapturous applause. The dancer had left the stage, floating away into some sort of wonderfully contrived nebulous background. Within a few moments,

The Atmosphere of the Place Was Languorous and Delicious.

ter to twelve. Meanwhile, let me show you something. It may amuse you as it has done me."

The three moved back towards one of the arched openings which led into the ballroom.

"Observe, if you please," their host continued, "the third couple who pass us. The girl is wearing green—the very little that she does wear. Watch the man, and see if he reminds you of any one."

Francis did as he was bidden. The girl was a well-known member of the chorus of one of the principal musical comedies, and she seemed to be thoroughly enjoying both the dance and her partner. The latter appeared to be of a somewhat ordinary type, tall, with rather puffy cheeks, and eyes almost unnaturally dark. He danced vigorously and he talked all the time. Something about him was vaguely familiar to Francis, but he failed to place him.

"Notwithstanding all my precautions," Sir Timothy continued, "there, fondly believing himself to be untraced, is an emissary of Scotland Yard. Really, of all the obvious, the dry-as-dust, hunt-your-criminal-by-rule-of-three kind of people I ever met, the class of detective to which this man belongs can produce the most blatant examples."

"What are you going to do about him?" Francis asked.

Sir Timothy shrugged his shoulders. "I have not yet made up my mind," he said. "I happen to know that he has been laying his plans for weeks to get here, frequenting Soto's and other restaurants, and scraping acquaintances with some of my friends. The duke of Tadchester brought him—won a few hundreds from him at baccarat. I suppose. His grace will never again find these doors open to him."

Francis' attention had wandered. He was gazing fixedly at the man whom Sir Timothy had pointed out.

"You still do not fully recognize our friend," the latter observed carelessly. "He calls himself Manuel Lofte, and he professes to be a Cuban. His real name I understood, when you introduced us, to be Shopland."

"Great heavens, so it is!" Francis exclaimed.

"Let us leave him to his precarious pleasures," Sir Timothy suggested. "I am free for a few moments. We will wander round together."

They found Lady Cynthia and Wilmore, and looked in at the supper-room, where people were waiting now for tables, a babel of sound and gaiety. The grounds and winter-gardens were crowded. Their guide led the way to a large apartment on the other side of the hall, from which the sound of music was proceeding.

"My theater," he said. "I wonder what is going on."

They passed inside. There was a small stage with steps leading down to the floor, easy-chairs and round tables everywhere, and waiters serving refreshments. A girl was dancing. Sir Timothy watched her approvingly.

"Nadia Ellistoff," he told them. "She was in the last Russian ballet, and she is waiting now for the rest of the company to start again at Covent Garden. You see, it is Metzger who plays there. They improvise. Rather a wonderful performance, I think."

They watched her breathlessly, a spirit in gray tulle, with great black eyes now and then half closed.

"It is 'Wind Before Dawn,'" Lady Cynthia whispered. "I heard him play it two days after he composed it, only there are variations now. She is the soul of the south wind."

The curtain went down amidst rapturous applause. The dancer had left the stage, floating away into some sort of wonderfully contrived nebulous background. Within a few moments, the principal comedian of the day was telling stories. Sir Timothy led them away.

"But how on earth do you get all these people?" Lady Cynthia asked.

"It is arranged for me," Sir Timothy replied. "I have an agent who sees to it all. Every man or woman who is asked to perform, has a credit at Cartier's for a hundred guineas. I pay no fees. They select some little keepsake."

Margaret laughed softly.

"No wonder they call this place a sort of Arabian Nights!" she declared.

"Well, there isn't much else for you to see," Sir Timothy said thoughtfully.

"My gymnasium, which is one of the principal features here, is closed just now for a special performance, of which I will speak in a moment. The concert hall I see they are using for an overflow dance-room. What you have seen, with the grounds and the winter-garden, comprises almost everything."

They moved back through the hall with difficulty. People were now crowding in. Lady Cynthia laughed softly.

"Why, it is like a gala night at the opera. Sir Timothy!" she exclaimed.

"How dare you pretend that this is Bohemia!"

"It has never been I who have described my entertainments," he reminded her. "They have been called everything—orgies, debauches—everything you can think of. I have never ventured myself to describe them."

Their passage was difficult. Every now and then Sir Timothy was compelled to shake hands with some of his newly-arriving guests. At last, however, they reached the little sitting-room. Sir Timothy turned back to Wilmore, who hesitated.

"You had better come in, too, Mr. Wilmore, if you will," he invited. "You were with Ledsam, the first day we met, and something which I have to say now may interest you."

"If I am not intruding," Wilmore murmured.

They entered the room, still jealously guarded. Sir Timothy closed the door behind them.

ROASTING PROCESS ADDS TO VALUE OF COFFEE

(By the Associated Press)

HAMBURG.—German and Swiss scientists who have been investigating the effect of coffee, tea and cocoa on the human system have reached conclusion that coffee and cocoa are stimulating chiefly because of the chemical changes brought about by roasting. Experiments were made upon both men and dogs to discover the effects of the three drinks which are commonly used throughout the civilized world. These showed that tea was less exhilarating than coffee and cocoa.

Coffee from which the caffeine had been extracted also was tested, and men who had used this beverage without knowing the change made in it underwent the same stimulation enjoyed by those drinking ordinary coffee. They did not, however, have the increase in blood pressure which came to those who drank coffee from which the caffeine had not been extracted.

It was the conclusion of the investigators that the roasting of coffee and cocoa change them in such a manner that when used in drink they cause a secretion of acidity in the stomach which has a refreshing effect and increases the power for mental effort.

GIRLS GET OUT NEWSPAPER TO UPLIFT CHINESE WOMEN

(By the Associated Press)

TIENSIN, China.—The Women's Daily News, the first publication edited by Chinese women in the history of the country has just made its debut here. Miss Liu Chingyang, who has travelled extensively in Europe, and Miss Li I Tao, president of the first Adult Women's school in Tientsin, are the enterprising young women who have undertaken the innovation. Both have gained some prominence in the women's student movement in China.

In her first editorial, Miss Li advocated organization of intellectual women into a strong body while Miss Liu similarly urged an equal standard of education and economical freedom with men. The declared object of the paper is to uplift the women of China, to improve their home life, and generally to promote their interests.

Various teaching positions medical work, housekeeping, law positions, oil geological work, and commercial work claim the majority of alumni occupations.

NEW BANK ALARM IS DEVISED FOR SAFETY

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 12.—An automatic burglar alarm for banks which fires blank cartridges simultaneously in all the money cages and from the direction of all doors, is among the protective devices under test in the laboratories of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Rapid fire automatic pistols set off by push buttons distributed throughout the bank constitute the alarm feature of the system. The theory of the inventor is that the fusillade will put the bandits to flight.

The mechanism, housed in a small steel box beneath the teller's window, is operated on the cartridge belt principle of the machine gun. As many firing boxes as are desired may be installed, and the trigger buttons may be distributed to every employee.

Improvements to make the device fool proof through perfection of its being loaded with genuine bullets, are suggested by the underwriters. Without this, it is pointed out, over cautious bankers might so charge the system as to endanger the lives of the bank patron.

BERLIN.—Aviation is being taught in the Charlottenburg Technical College. Students are especially interested in gliding and build their own machines.

GRATEFUL PARENTS POUR OUT THANKS TO TANLAC

Mr. & Mrs. JOSEPH E. KAAKE and Family

The value of Tanlac as a family medicine and tonic is again very forcefully demonstrated. This time in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Kaake, 2436 Kirby Ave., West, Detroit, Mich., where father and mother and every member of the family have been benefited by the wholesome and helpful ingredients of the famous preparation.

Recently, in speaking for herself and children, Mrs. Kaake said: "For more than a year our three little ones—John, age 6, Elwyn, 4, and Marguerite, 2—had been so peaked and lifeless that we were seriously worried about them. Their stomachs were upset, appetites poor, the color had left their cheeks, their nights were restless, and during the day they would just mope around, taking no interest in play or anything else."

"They began to eat and sleep better almost from the first dose of Tanlac, and have picked up now until you couldn't find three healthier or more active children in all Detroit. They eat ravenously, the color of health has returned to their cheeks, and they just want to be on the go all the time. I have also taken Tanlac to build me up, and it never seems to fail."

"As to my personal experience with Tanlac," said Mr. Kaake, "I simply can't express in words the great help it gave me. About a year ago I was a victim of boils, actually having fifty-one on me, and was so played out that I couldn't do a bit of work for weeks. My suffering was almost unbearable. I cared little for food, suffered with severe headaches and stomach pains, and got so weak and nervous that I felt discouraged."

"Tanalac corrected my stomach disorders, woke up my appetite, cleansed my blood and toned up my system so that the boils went away, and nothing of the kind has bothered me since. I have gained 28 lbs., and I eat, sleep and feel like a brand-new man. We have given Tanlac a fair trial and found it wonderful and if anyone doubts our statement they can write personally. We wouldn't think of being without Tanlac."

Tanalac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

TRAPP PLAYS NO STATE FAVORITES

East and West Share Alike In Rewards of State Jobs From Trapp

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Governor M. E. Trapp can not be charged with playing favorites as between the east and west side of the state in making his appointments.

During his short time in office he has replaced the heads of 16 state institutions and departments and the list shows that they were equally divided as between the east and west side of the state.

Counting the members of boards of regents he has made 25 appointments.

The chairman of the state board of affairs, warden of the state penitentiary, state health commissioner, and highway commissioner are from the east side of the state.

Few of the old Walton appointees except the supreme court commissioners are left at the heads of state departments.

Chief among the appointments that are to be made in the near future are board of regent members of the University of Oklahoma, school textbook commission and boards of regents for several of the smaller schools.

A list of his appointees and their positions follow:

Here They Are.

Carl L. Rice, Tulsa, chairman state board of affairs, certified public accountant; John E. O'Neill, Oklahoma City, secretary board of affairs, wholesale hardware dealer; Wm. S. Key, Wewoka, warden penitentiary, retail hardware dealer; Dr. G. A. Waters, Pawnee, warden state reformatory, physician and stock farmer; Parker LaMoore, Oklahoma City, secretary to the governor, newspaper man; C. S. Avery, Tulsa, state highway commissioner, newspaper man.

Jesse G. Reed, Hobart, state insurance commissioner, insurance dealer; Dr. J. W. Scarborough, Mangum, superintendent, Darlington home, physician and surgeon; Dr. Carl Puckett, Pryor, state health commissioner, physician; Gen. W. Hines, Blackwell, state game warden, deputy sheriff Kay county; J. D. Lydick, Oklahoma City, justice of the supreme court, attorney; Frank L. Warren, Holdenville, supreme court justice; Baird H. Markham, Oklahoma City, adjutant general national guard, automobile dealer.

M. J. Glass, Tulsa, member state real estate board, real estate dealer; J. W. Plematt, Enid, real estate board, real estate dealer; Vic Houston, Guthrie, real estate board, real estate dealer.

POOR EQUIPMENT ADDS FARMERS WIVES BURDEN

(By the Associated Press)

DURHAM, N. H., March 14.—The suggestion that farm women spend more time in the making of pies, cakes and cookies than their food value justifies, is made by workers of the state farm extension service. These workers, with the aid of charts kept by representative farmers' wives have figured that the average farm woman in this state performs nearly 4,000 hours of labor a year, in effect giving her an eleven-hour day, including Sundays and holidays.

The extension workers are trying to work out some means of reducing this burden. A campaign for better food selection is being made in view of the fact that the charts show an average of four hours a day spent in food preparation. The inconvenient arrangement of kitchens and poor equipment is found to be an important factor in the situation.

The time spent on sewing, the workers say, can be reduced by education in equipment and methods. Better washing equipment will help in laundry work.

The extension service heard of a farmer who was forced to do the family washing because his wife was ill. She had done her laundry work for 27 years with inadequate equipment, but at the end of two weeks the farmer bought a washing machine.

MILITARISTS SEEK TERRITORY POWER

Control Over Entire Kiaochow Territory Sought by New Leadership

(By the Associated Press)
TSINGTAO, China.—Chinese politicians are swarming into Tsingtao on the assumption that the militarists soon will take over complete administration of the Kiaochow territory, with attendant distribution of many offices. The assumption is predicated upon belief that Hsiung ping chi, the civil governor, will be victorious in the present fight which seeks his impeachment on charges of misuse and misappropriation of public funds.

Hsiung has made no secret of his hopes for gaining control over the Kiaochow-Tsinan railway, the former German and later Japanese controlled Shantung railway, and these aspirations have formed the focus of the opposition to him. To obtain control, however, Hsiung must either override Dr. C. T. Fang, formerly in charge of these territories after the Japanese turned them back to China, or must convert Dr. Wang to his own point of view.

No one outside Hsiung's own faction credits him with any altruistic motives in connection with the railway, in spite of his contention that a naval base should be created here in support of a fleet of seven battleships, all financed from the road's earnings. The railway's board of directors, with its active executive, Liu Fang, has held out steadfastly heretofore against interference with the line but lately it said Liu Fang has consulted with General Wu Peifu, a leader of the Chih-li party and a strong militarist, regarding the railway.

Another complication in the situation is that the chief accountant of the railway, T. L. Ku, has refused to sign any order for withdrawal of its funds from its own operations and custody. Ku has appealed to Peking for support in his stand. Hsiung would prefer to remove Liu Fang and appoint Chang Tso-hung, former Shantung commissioner of finance, to his post.

With the insecurity attaching to their positions as a result of all this and with their salaries unpaid for the past three or four months, the railway personnel members are seriously impaired and there are grim comments to be heard that such utilities as the water and light services, to say nothing of courts and police are facing a breakdown.

More than three-fourths of the world's estimated stock of 42 tons of diamonds have been removed from African mines in the last 40 years.

BRAZIL BENEFITS FROM FOREIGNERS

Foreign Missions Contribute To Renovation of Army Upbuilding

(By the Associated Press)
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil.—Foreign missions have become the fashion in Brazil. A French army mission under the command of General Gamelin has been here for about three years assisting in the reorganization of the Brazilian army. An American naval mission commanded by Rear Admiral Carl Vogelgesang has been working here for a year introducing modern methods in the Brazilian navy. A British financial and commercial mission arrived in Rio de Janeiro Dec. 31 at the invitation of the Brazilian government.

All of these missions have attracted public interest both within and outside the country. The army and navy missions have been the cause of comment and criticism in the other South American countries. Now the British financial and commercial mission is focusing the attention of the commercial representatives of other countries.

In a statement to The Associated Press, Sir Edwin S. Montagu, chief of the British mission, said that the Brazilian government wished to carry out without delay a general plan of financial restoration and to give the greatest economic national development, especially to cotton, iron, petroleum, coal and other products, and banking organization from the point of view of exchange. For this reason it had secured a visit to Brazil on the part of men eminent in the world of industry, finance and economics in order that their direct knowledge of the affairs of the country, and its great productive capacity, may result in freer application of English capital to the prosperity of Brazil. Members of the mission said they expected to remain here about three months.

Both the Brazilian government and the British mission have avoided making any statement concerning possible loans to Brazil, but it is rumored that British capitalists have suggested the formation of a syndicate to take over and consolidate all Brazilian indebtedness to other countries, and to advance further sums for Brazilian necessities in the near future.

Prune Farm Has 2,552 Acres

(By the Associated Press)
BUTTE CITY, Cal., March 12.—What is declared to be the largest prune orchard in the world has resulted from the consolidation of several large orchard farms on the Sacramento river. In the consolidation are 2,552 acres. Approximately $2,000,000 was involved in the transaction.

ARMY MEN READY FOR LONG TRIP

All Preparations Made For Flight to Encircle Globe.

NEW YORK, March 14.—The hop off on the first leg of a round-the-world flight by a squadron of the United States Army Air service is scheduled for March 17 at Santa Monica, Cal. The first part of the flight will be northward along the Pacific Coast by way of Fresno, Stockton and Sacramento, Cal., thence to Portland, Ore., and Seattle, Wash. At the last named city the planes will be fitted with pontoons for water landings, which will be made in sheltered harbors along the coast of British Columbia, Alaska, through the Aleutian Islands and along the Japan coast.

The four principal objects of the flight are: To gain for the air service added experience in long distance flying and particularly in the supply problems connected with such flights; to complete an airplane flight around the world in the shortest practicable time; to demonstrate the feasibility of establishing a commercial airway around the world; to obtain for the United States the first place of practical aviation, the honor of being the first nation to encircle the globe entirely by air.

The most careful preparations have been made for the flight by the army air service, which has had valuable assistance from the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America. Through the latter organization several score of American business corporations with representatives abroad have been enlisted to aid flyers at various points.

The squadron will be made up of four biplanes, known as Douglas world cruizers.

The flight will be in command of Major Frederick L. Martin. He will be accompanied by Lieutenants Lowell H. Smith, Erik H. Nelson and Leigh Wade. All four are experienced pilots, each with a record of more than 1,500 hours flying time. Lieutenants Leslie P. Arnold and LeClair D. Schulze have been designated as part of the flight personnel to act as alternates. They also have fine records for actual flying time that compare with those of the other four. The personnel also will include four enlisted men.

The squadron expects to leave Seattle about April 1, after which stops for fuel, food and supplies will be made at the following places: Prince Rupert, B. C.; Sitka, Cordova, Seward and Chignik, Alaska; Akutan or Dutch Harbor, Unalaska; Nagan, Island of Attu; Chignikoff, Island of Attu; Paramushiro Island (Kuriles) Bettobu (Kuriles); Akkeshie, Aomori, Tokio and Nagasaki, Japan; Chempuho (Jinsen); Tsingtao, Shanghai, Amoy and Hongkong, China; Haiphong, Tourane and Saigon, French Indo China; Bangkok, Siam; Rangoon and Ak-yab, Burman, Calcutta, Allahabad, Delhi, Multan and Karachi, India; Chahbar, Bandar Bushire, Persia; Bagdad; Aleppo, Syria; Konia and San Stefano, Turkey; Belgrade, Vienna, Strassbourg, Paris, London, Hull, Kirwall in Orkney Islands; Thorshavn in Faroe Islands; Reykjavik, Iceland; Angmagssalik and Avigtut, Greenland; Rigolett, Hamilton Inlet, Labrador; Mingan, Que., Quebec, Montreal.

Leaving Montreal the flyers will proceed to New York, thence to Washington and probably to Dayton, Chicago and by easy stages westward to Los Angeles, the starting point.

A theoretical schedule has been worked out and while it is not expected that this will be strictly adhered to because of unforeseen local contingencies, it is hoped to complete the flight by the latter part of August at the latest.

Angoria Restricts Foreign Boats

(By the Associated Press)
CONSTANTINOPLE—Motor launches and houseboats belonging to foreigners have been prohibited from operating in Turkish waters in accordance with the Angora law restricting foreign ships. Americans have asked the captain of the port to permit their launches and houseboats to sail in the Golden Horn and in the Bosphorus.

WRIGHTSMAN OUT ON LABOR HORSE

Tulsa Oil Man Groomed as
Choice Over Walton,
Wilson and Nesbitt

OKLAHOMA CITY.—From this place and time, it looks very much as if the Farmer-Labor convention to be held in El Reno beginning Monday would be something in the nature of a Wrightsman ratification meeting. So rapidly has the Tulsa oil man's strength grown in the past few days that it looks now as if he could not be headed.

Certainly there seems no chance that either J. C. Walton, George Wilson or Paul Nesbitt could take the convention away from him. It would have to be a dark horse or a split in the ranks. The Wrightsman opposition has threatened both these eventualities, but suitable dark horses are not forthcoming as yet, while the threat of a split does not seem to have been taken seriously.

There is one other possibility for ditching the Wrightsman boom and that is by the adoption of a platform so radical that he would refuse to stand upon it. But this would be difficult to put over. Even before Wrightsman was seriously suggested as a candidate movement was inaugurated to secure a more moderate platform than the Shawnee platform, and it is doubtful if it could be headed off at this late date. Much of the enthusiasm for Wrightsman, indeed, has come from the moderate wing of the league.

Even Foes May Turn.

Today there are Wrightsman supporters so enthusiastic as to say that J. Luther Langston, manager of the league, will be found supporting Wrightsman, after his own candidate, Nesbitt, is defeated, and even that the Oklahoma Leader group will not fight him.

The Leader is making a hot fight for George Wilson, and even before Wrightsman got into the race had taken such a decided stand against Paul Nesbitt that it was apparent that, even if Nesbitt were endorsed at El Reno, The Leader could not give him any real support.

It was because Wrightsman backed Pat Nagle, the late socialist leader, in working for the change that has now at least partially been recognized, of placing the league firmly upon an economic basis that The Leader is so strongly opposed to him, it is claimed. There is also Wrightsman's charge, made during the days of that fight that The Leader had tried to get a large amount of money from him, and had turned on him only after he refused to pay. Langston also fell out with Wrightsman over this re-organization fight.

Leaders Preach Moderation.

It is said that the fact that the moderates, and not the extremists, are likely to be in control at El Reno, is what is responsible both for the sudden boom in Wrightsman's stock, and also for the talk of secession. Ora M. Finley and Victor S. Purdy, president and secretary of the State Federation of Labor, as well as John Simpson and C. H. Hyde, president and vice president of the Farmers union have been preaching moderation. They think a platform can be written that will alienate less neutral support, and actually gain more economic advantages for the farmers and workers, than did the Shawnee platform.

To many of the old Socialists this is treason. They are not satisfied unless they can slap the rest of the world in the face, and stir up the utmost possible class strife. By many of these, therefore, Wrightsman's endorsement upon a platform of radical progressivism, rather than upon their platform of extreme radicalism, would be nothing less than treason.

Wrightsman's Strength.

But there are friends of the Tulsa candidate who say all this talk of a split amounts only to a confession that Wrightsman will win. It is their last effort to head off his endorsement.

It would not be correct to say that Wrightsman's is a grass roots strength. He is not well known among the radical rank and file, although his reputation as a progressive is well established. But those candidates for office in the Democratic primary who hope to get the league endorsement are overwhelmingly for Wrightsman. They think the nomination of any other candidate for senator by the league in the Democratic primary would simply result in a Republican victory. They believe Wrightsman, if nominated, could hold in line all of the moderate Democrats and most of the conservatives.
